7.2.2 BEST PRACTICES

BEST PRACTICE – II- WELFARE NOON-MEAL SCHEME

1. Title of the Practice

Welfare Noon-Meal Scheme to support poor and underprivileged women students to pursue higher education

2. Objectives of the Practice

Though the nation is striving hard to provide its citizens with all basic requirements like food, shelter and clothing, the fact still remains that in some of the regions of the country, self-sufficiency has not yet been reached. When the basic structure is in a trembling state, the luxury of higher education becomes a dream to many young women students in our country. Girls are seen as dowry debts by their parents and giving education to them is considered not even secondary or tertiary but something unimportant and unnecessary. In spite of this limitation aspiring young women are coming to our college to pursue higher education. For them education becomes primary and other basic needs only secondary. With a view to help, encourage and motivate such thirsty young learners, the former professors of our college launched the welfare noon meal scheme in our college, in the footsteps of our visionary leaders who tried to promote primary and secondary education by attracting the students to school by means of mid day meals system.

3. The Context

Though there has been a phenomenal growth in the number of women enrolled in higher education since independence, the percentage of women students from the under privileged background is much lower due to gender discrimination and financial constraints. By encouraging and promoting the education of women, women empowerment can be made a reality in our country and women can be empowered for a better future.

Majority of our students are from socio-economically challenged segments of the society and cannot afford two meals a day. They attend classes on an empty stomach and report to their jobs directly from college. Personal interactions with students by their tutors and analysis of the dropout statistics have revealed that familial and financial constraints prevent them from completing higher education and lead them to drop-out midway through the course. To meet the needs of the students, a mid-day meal scheme was started way back in the 1990s. It has been found that more than fifty students every year get the chance to continue their higher education unmindful of the worries about their lunch which is taken care of by the college.

4. The Practice

On the recommendations of the class tutors and the HOD, five poor, well performing students from each department are selected and these sixty students from all the twelve departments are provided with lunch on all working days during the whole period of study. Permanent staff members of this college contribute to this noble cause. This work is done in such a systematic way that every three years like other college duties, it is passed on from one department to another and the staff willingly accept this work and perform it to the satisfaction of the needy students and the donors. Accounts are maintained properly with a bank account in the name of the principal and at the end of every academic year, a detailed account of the amount of money collected, and the balance is circulated among the staff for their perusal. So far, no complaints have been registered either from the students' side or from the staff. Staff are contributing to this cause cheerfully and voluntarily and the students are showing great improvement in their academics and some students even go to the extent of recommending our college for higher education to the poor and needy students of their neighborhood.

The departments in charge of the programme

Sl.No	Period	Name of the department
1	2018-19 to 2020-21	ECONOMICS
2	2021-22 to 2022-23	HISTORY

5. Evidence of Success

- There is a significant improvement in their academic performance. Absenteeism is reduced to a great extent.
- The sense of gratitude the students feel is expected to be revealed in their deeds of great benevolence in the future. They develop an attitude to give back to the society what they received at a young needy age.
- They develop a positive attitude towards the staff and the institution.
- The faculty experience the joy of giving and they get a great sense of contentment when they realize that they play a vital role in the overall development of their students.

6. Problems Encountered and Resources Required

The students are hesitant to enroll themselves under this scheme as they are afraid that their social and financial backgrounds may become explicitly displayed. Spicy tomato rice is served mainly as the students are not interested in any other form of variety rice. Hence, we are unable to serve them with nutritious lunch. Due to lack of man power, the college canteen food is bought and served to the students.

7. Notes (Optional)

This welfare scheme is rarely found in government colleges. As the government colleges are the ultimate destination of the poor and the underprivileged, the system can be implemented in all government colleges. It will be very helpful to the students. Even the government can think of providing the government college students with one square meal a day. This will surely bring about a tremendous change in the field of higher education.
